NEWPORT,
BY CRANSTON & NORMAN,
127 THAMES STREET.

MONDAY MORNING, OCT. 27, 1851.

FAULTS OF NEW YORK BROKERS.—There was considerable excitement last Thursday in the New York and Boston stock and money markets, at the announcement of the failure of Messrs. Jacob Little & Co., the famous Wall street brokers, who were rated as worth at least a million and a half. Their failure was caused by their stock contracts, they having sold large amounts short, which they are unable to deliver owing to the recent advance. They have lost largely on Delaware and Hudson, which they bought at 140, now selling at 167. They have also made losses in Erie railroad, Norwich and Worcester, and other stocks, in all of which, says the New York papers, they have been "a great bear."

It is generally understood they will pay all trust debts and confidential loans in full. They owe no money of consequence except that secured by stocks with margins. All their drafts in every direction are legitimate and good, and they will continue to enjoy the confidence of the public. The house has had full sway in Wall street for years, and at times carried all before it, and their attack or defence made or unmade a fortune. They have survived shock after shock, but at last have gone by the board. As financiers their operations have been bold and far sighted; and the indomitable energy of the individual members of the house will soon enable them to assume their former high financial position.

MR. WEBSTER AMONG THE FARMERS.—It is evident that Mr. Webster has hosts of friends among the farming interest of the country. The sentiment in Mr. W.'s favor seems as universal as it is enthusiastic. At the Agricultural Fair at Amherst, on Wednesday, a letter from Mr. Webster having been read, a complimentary toast was offered by the chairman, after which the following was given by Mr. Wilder, the orator of the day, and received with universal applause:

The distinguished farmer of Franklin and Marshfield—He may have failed to come out first in one or two ploughing matches, because not so expert as some men at turning a sharp corner, but no man ever ran so deep and straight a furrow, or turn over his work so even and true. Although Uncle Sam has not yet been wise enough to give him the principal charge of his great farm, the land everywhere bears much fruit of his planting, and abundant evidence of his wise culture.

THE MURDER TRIAL IN PREVINGER.—We learn from Providence, that the Jury in the case of the girl Almina Beasley, fourteen years old, charged with poisoning her infant brother, by putting arsenic in his milk, while her step-mother was absent, have brought in a verdict of not guilty, on the ground of insanity, and the prisoner was remanded back to jail until the Attorney General could make arrangements to have her put in the Butler Insane Asylum for a time.

AN AMERICAN AT HAVANA.—A friend on a visit to Havana has communicated to us the particulars of an interview which he had with the Governor General of Cuba, and also with the prison, before their departure for Spain, and although the matters to which his communication relates are now somewhat out of date we think that the substance of what he states will still be perused with interest.

Our informant had no difficulty in obtaining an interview with the Captain General, who received him with much apparent cordiality, and at once entered into conversation on the subject of the Lopez expedition and the prisoners then at Havana. The Captain General appeared to be disposed, and even anxious to release the prisoners at once, but this he was not at liberty to do, in consequence of having in the discharge of his duty reported them and their cases to the Spanish government, by whom alone they could now be pardoned. Obstacles to his own desires in this matter had grown out of the strong current of public opinion in the island, and especially out of the violence of the New Orleans mob toward the Spanish consul at that city. The latter was explained to the Captain's entire satisfaction; and he expressed his intention to recommend to his own government the release of the captives immediately on their arrival. He spoke in just terms of the President and Government of the United States, and took occasion to say that they had done every thing in their power to prevent the invasion.—Report.

LATER FROM THE MEXICAN FRONTIER.

We mentioned yesterday the arrest of two alleged slaves on the Mexican frontier, on the American side of the line; the release of one, on the production of his free papers, and the probability that the other would have to be released on the same ground. Later advices give the following particular:

SEPTEMBER 24th.

Col. Morris, and some other gentlemen, visited the officers of the Mexican garrison last evening, at which Wild Cat appeared in grand costume, wearing his plumed and ornaments, and painted according to his fancy, (that is to say, painted for war,) and his men had likewise called red clay to their aid.

Much talking did it require to keep them peaceable; but after many explanations, Wild Cat concluded to keep cool, and wait for the authorities to give the captives their liberty once more.—The first intention of the Indians was to rush across the river and rescue the prisoners, but the Mexican captain notified them that if they did so, he would fire upon them if they attempted to cross the river. Master Wild Cat thus found himself between two fires, and I doubt not the prospect thus presented had some weight to keep him in check. At the end of the conference Wild Cat asked Col. Morris if he was permitted to cross over and set the prisoners, and receiving permission, he came over to-day, and brought over with him some twenty of his men, but thus far I have not seen him, and he is at this time with the prisoners.

SEPTEMBER 24th—Evening.

Wild Cat, with Col. Morris and some other gentlemen, are having another big talk together, in the prisoner's room. Wild Cat paid me a visit this afternoon about 4 o'clock, and appeared to be friendly. The second chief likewise conducted himself well; but nevertheless they are very angry, and they cannot disguise it. The visit was short, and after a little conversation they took their departure again to the room of the prisoners, after writing to me to be present at the council. I went after them and beheld a big negro and a boy in chains, some twenty Indians painted and looking rather savage, a few kind hearted gentlemen, as interpreters, and some others who came to see the elephant.

The conversation was from Seminole, interpreted in Spanish and from Spanish into English, for the benefit of those who did not understand the Spanish; and after much talk the Indians were made to understand that the colonel had not the power to release the prisoners, since he had no right to interfere with the civil law, and that it was necessary to take them on to San Antonio.

The Indians received permission to send one of their chiefs along as a witness, but the proposition was rejected; for they appear to think that if the free papers which John produced, signed by his owner and Gen. Jessup, are not regarded, that the word of the white man is no good, and they finally retired to the Mexican side, to hold a council of the Nation, and deliberate on the affair, and thus ended the business of the day.

There is a screw loose somewhere, and some of our citizens give it as their opinion that the Indians will rescue the negroes and perhaps do some mischief.—Wild Cat conducted himself with much propriety and dignity, but an angry spirit is rousing within him and he could not disguise it.

FROM HAVANA.—The Georgia brings no confirmation of the report that the Spanish officers engaged in the capture of Lopez had been assassinated at Havana.

The proposed removal of Owen by the American administration had given great satisfaction. Up to the sailing of the Georgia, $174,566 had been subscribed toward the relief of the widow and orphans in the late invasion. The Queen's birthday was celebrated with great pomp. Gen Concha on that day liberated 29 of the Cireo prisoners.

The Lopez prisoners continued to be treated with much care. Business was exceedingly dull, although northern produce had been sold to advantage when landed in good order. Freight were rather quiet, but some engagements had been made coastwise for vessels loading with molasses. At outports there had been no offers tempting enough to American masters for European ports.

SONG OF THE WRECKED FISHERMEN RETURNED.—The Newburyport Herald says: "Several fishing vessels arrived yesterday, from Bay Chaleur, bringing up some of the ship-wrecked crew—There was great rejoicing among the families of the men who reached home. The loss in vessels has fallen much heavier upon our fleet than upon any other port. This is attributed to a large portion of them having been fishing together at the commencement of the gale in the head of the island, where it was almost impossible to escape going ashore."

THE GALE AT PRINCE EDWARD'S ISLAND.—The Prince Edward Islander of the 17th, to which we have before referred, gives the following description of the late storm:

"The disasterous 2d of October, 1851, will long be remembered in the annals of Prince Edward Island. The afternoon was warm and still; the sky was heavily clouded, but yet no indication of the approaching tempest were apparent, excepting a lurid, brief appearance to the north and northwest about sunset; in the West Indies the sure harbinger of a hurricane. The moon had passed her first quarter but the dense canopy of clouds, and heavy rain, rendered her light hardly perceptible.

About an hour after sunset, the wind blew from the north, and soon increased to a heavy gale, which then continued with unabated violence until near noon on Sunday. A few miles from the north shore, and embayed between the extreme horns of the Island, were a number of American fishing vessels, for which there was no escape but the harbor. When they became conscious of their desperate position, they ran for shelter to leeward, but having no lights to direct their course to safe anchorage, as there should be, we regret to say that a lament loss of life and property has been the result. Prone as the people of this Island are to exaggeration, we fear that it is in the present case exceeded by the sad reality, which transcends the scale of their imagination. Whilst we write the actual loss has not been ascertained—perhaps never will—but we have what we consider good authority for stating that about fifty corpses were driven ashore between Brackley Point and Cavendish—a distance of only about twenty miles—with twenty-four hours after the storm had abated. Of those, ten sleep in Cavendish church yard!"

The Newburyport committee who went to Prince Edward's Island on behalf of the owners of fishing vessels, belonging to that port, returned on Wednesday, and brought accounts from all the Newburyport vessels, except two, from which nothing had been heard, when they left the Island on Saturday last. Of the vessels belonging to Newburyport 44 are safe, 19 lost, and 2 the Actor and Augustus, not heard from.

The committee estimate that although some vessels have undoubtedly been lost at sea, with all their crew, the whole number of vessels ashore and lost will not exceed 75, and the number of lives lost will not exceed 150. The following is a list of the lives thus far known to be lost, and the names of the vessels to which they belonged:

Vessels.	Men lost.
Statesman, Fowler, Newburyport, 10 Traveller, F. Currier, do	9
Balena, of Portsmouth, 10 Lion, of Castine, 6	10
Franklin, of Dennis, 10 Nettle, of Truro, 4	10
Harriet Newell, of Harwich, 2 Flair Play, of Portland, 11	11
Flirt, of Gloucester, 13 Mary Moulton, of Castine, 12	13
Vulture, of Newburyport, 1 Native American, of do, 1	1
America, of Lamee, 9	9

Total, 97

Several unknown vessels it is supposed沉没ed at sea, the crews of which were of course lost. The committee visited the wreck of one about 80 or 90 tons, a mile outside of Bridget Harbor, but could not ascertain her name. She had an eight-square bowsprit, and from this they judged that she was either a Gloucester or Provincetown vessel. She appeared to have foundered in her anchor.

The following is a list of vessels lost on the Island, and crews saved:

Scts. Reward, of Deer Island; William Portland, Regulator, do; Montague; Hingham; Leo, Castine; Martha Ann, Winchendon; Triumph Cape Elizabeth; Mount Hope, Hingham; Oscar Coles, Portsmouth; Golden Grove, Kennebunk; Garland, Gloucester; Eleanor, do; Belle, Beverly; Seth Hall, Dennis; Grafton do; Naval Queen, of Cohasset, of—Henry Knox Cobasset; Caledonia, Portland; Melrose, Provincetown; Charles Augustus Colchester; Commerce, Harwich; Hickory, Portland; Governor, Boston; Wanderer, Beverly; Belle, Dennis; George, Castine; Blawmfield, Boston; C. E. Bassell, Gloucester, (dismasted); Norma Deer Island; Eliza, Lubec; Tickler, New London. Total 33.

ANOTHER FUGITIVE SLAVE CASE.—Philadelphia, Oct. 24. This morning before United States Commissioner Ingram, Henry Pique, an alleged fugitive of Noble Pennington, of Maryland, who was arrested this morning, had a hearing and was remanded to his master, and is now on his way to Baltimore.

During his examination, Mr. Pierce counsel for the prisoner, said Judge Concklin, of Western New York, had decided that the 10th section of the Fugitive Slave Law applied only to such cases as had occurred after the passage of that act.

The Commissioner replied he could not be guided by any decision of Judge Concklin, as he could not believe but that the Judge labored under a very great mistake.

THE NEW YORK CORRESPONDENT of the Washington Republic says that "at the 20th of next month Mrs. Forrest will make her debut at one of our theatres. She has been a long while preparing herself for the stage, and has had the benefit of instruction from Charlotte Cushman, between whom and Mrs. Forrest's husband there is a deadly feud existing." The New York Mirror doubts the accuracy of this statement.

BY TELEGRAPH.

COMPLIMENT TO HON. DANIEL WEBSTER.—Mr. Webster appeared in the Circuit Court yesterday, and was warmly received by many of his fellow members of the Bar and distinguished persons present.

On the return of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery (under Gen. Cushing) from Waltham last evening, the corps marched to the Revere House, and halting in front, saluted the Secretary of State. The Square was soon filled with people, and when Mr. Webster appeared open the hull-door steps, the cheering was most enthusiastic. He addressed the Artillery in a brief but beautiful speech, in acknowledgment of the compliment they had paid him, but said he must attribute the honor chiefly to the circumstance that he held an office in the General Government. He also referred to the antiquity of the corps, and importance of its organization in the earlier stages of its history.

Mr. Webster attended the first part of:

Miss Hayes's Concert in Tremont Temple last evening. As he passed up the central aisle the audience simultaneously arose, and while the gentlemen saluted him with denting cheers, the ladies manifested no less enthusiasm by the waving of handkerchiefs and other testimonials of delight. The greeting was one of the most spirited and spontaneous scenes probably ever witnessed on a similar occasion. Mr. Webster graciously bowed his thanks, when the Germania Society (the orchestra) immediately struck up "Hail Columbia," during the execution of which the audience resumed their seats and prepared to listen to the performances.

Between 11 and 12 o'clock, Bond's Cornet Band serenaded Mr. Webster at the Revere House, with some of their choicest pieces of music, executed in exquisite style. A multitude assembled and called for Mr. W., who appeared at his window amid great applause. He said, although sleep was sweet, he was always happy to be awakened by the discourse of such eloquent music as he had heard, and to receive the congratulations of friends. As he withdrew he was again loudly cheered and the Band continued for some time to gratify their numerous audience.—Boston Transcript.
